Classic events return to Waukesha County Fair

Lumberjack show, pig races set to delight the crowds

By Jake Ekdahl

WAUKESHA — The Waukesha County Fair is returning for its 179th year this summer, and offering a variety of special feature events for locals to enjoy.

Waukesha County Fair Executive Director Chrissy Gluege said the five-day schedule should ideally allow everyone a day or time for an event that interests them.

Those events include Timberworks Lumberjack Shows, livestock auctions, pig, duck and goat races, demolition derby, pancake breakfast, a classic car show and more.

Gluege said the lumberjack show is “action packed” and includes axe throwing and log rolling.

There will also be truck and tractor pulls opening day July 21 and July 25.

“That is the place to be and the time to come,” Gluege said. “You see the smoke and hear the roar of the crowds and everything in between.”

A tried and true staple at the fair is the Saturday pancake breakfast by the Kiwanis Club of Waukesha scheduled for July 24 from 7 a.m. to 11 a.m. Tickets can be purchased on the fair’s website for $8.

The last day of the fair will hold a classic car show, July 25, with registration beginning at 12:15 p.m. This year will be the tenth for the car show, and typically more than 125 cars are shown.

Shiny collector cars won’t be the only ones drawing crowds at the fair; however. The longtime popular demolition derby is returning as well.

“We always say crash ‘em, smash ‘em action happens at the demo derby Saturday,” Gluege said. It’s scheduled for 1 p.m. July 24 and will have a parallel event for kids, the power wheels competition, which allows a fun and safe way for the youngest fairgoers to participate.

The pig, goat and duck races make for memorable sights every year as well. Those are held on the south end of the fair grounds and the fairgoers pick the winner.

“We’ll have some fun giveaways for those that do pick the winner,” Gluege said.

At the livestock auction July 23, normally held at 6 p.m., Waukesha County Executive Paul Farrow will speak and kick off the event.

July 21 will be the date of the Royal Tea event this year, where youth members ages 5 to 12 can sign up to have tea with the Fairest of the Fair and get crowned on stage. Gluege said it’s a good way to get the younger generation involved and interested for the future.

Gluege said InPro Corporation has been a valued partner to the fair.

“We’re so grateful for them in every way,” she said of InPro and other partners. “We’re back for fun in 2021.”

“Our theme this year is ‘this fair is for you,’” Gluege said.

Four bands set to headline this year's fair

Represent country and rock genres

Freeman Staff

It's not a fair without live music and four nationally known bands will be headlining this year's Waukesha County Fair with many more bands performing on smaller stages.

The headlining act for Thursday, July 22 on the Miller Lite Main Stage is Sawyer Brown, which will start performing at 8 p.m.

Sawyer Brown began performing their country music in the early 1980s and have had 50 chart-topping singles across 23 albums. Having been described as the "Rolling Stones of Country Music," they provide high-energy performances, making fans of all ages relate to so many aspects of their storied songs.

The band prides itself on telling stories and creating connections through some of its classic songs such as "All These Years" (1992), "Some Girls Do" (1992), and "Thank God for You" (1993).

1980s rock band RATT is set to headline the Miller Lite Main Stage at 8 p.m. Friday, July 23.

Rocking out for more than three decades, lead singer/songwriter Stephen Pearcy and his RATT bandmates helped pioneer the 1980s Sunset Strip sound and scene. RATT has sold more than 15 million records in the U.S. Since 1983, RATT's first four records went platinum, selling out concert arenas worldwide.

RATT will perform songs from their 1984 debut album, "Out of the Cellar," which went over three times platinum behind the hits, "Round & Round," "Back for More," and "Wanted Man."

The Saturday, July 24 headlining act is Collective Soul, whose multi-platinum debut "Hints Allegations and Things Left Unsaid" was released in 1993. Some of their most famous songs were "Shine" and "Breathe." The Georgia-bred rockers have put out 12 albums over the years. Other well-known songs include "The World I Know," and recent tracks like "Over Me." The show starts at 8 p.m.

The final headlining act is the Kentucky Headhunters, set to perform at 6 p.m. Sunday, July 25. Known as "Southern Rock Royalty" and the "great American rock 'n roll band," the Kentucky Headhunters created their own twist in the music scene, making their initial start back in the late '60s. Some of their most famous songs are "Walk Softly on This Heart of Mine", "Dumas Walker", and "Oh Lonesome Me".

The Kentucky Headhunters have received awards from the AMAs, CMAs, ACMS, Grammys, and more,

Excitement growing as 4H ramps up for fair

By Alex Nemec

anemec@conley.net
262-513-2661

WAUKESHA — The kids of the Waukesha County 4H program are gearing up for this year's Waukesha County Fair as it looks to get back into the normal swing of things after the pandemic.

Waukesha County 4H Youth and Family Educator James Boling said with the near 350 youth involved in the programming, 4H is just like any other program in trying to get back in rhythm.

Part of that effort was having 4H kids at Phantom Ranch in Mukwonago in June, Boling said.

"It was exciting, I think, getting back to seeing some people face-to-face and have social skill development," Boling said. "... I think now being able to see each other, to talk, share, and to participate in activities that we are able to put our hands on and work with people on. I think that is huge."

Every year the Waukesha County Fair serves as the catalyst that allows 4H kids to showcase the skills they have learned over the past year.

Boling called the Fair an "invaluable resource" in the community.

"It provides an opportunity for our youth to learn and that's through that experience learning through the auction, showing their animals, whether it is showing their skills and interest, it's a progression," Boling said. "It's not only about winning a ribbon or some premium pay. It's about education of our youth. It provides opportunity to support their growth and learnings."

Bradford Paulson, who is the photography program leader, said through the pandemic the photography program had virtual check-ins with the kids to help them keep growing their skills.

"Kids always like taking pictures. There's a lot to learn and it's easy to get into," Paulson said. "Energy is there from kids as the Fair comes around."

Paulson said he is excited to have the Waukesha County Fair back in action.

"I think it's a huge thing," he said. "We've all been locked up for a year not being able to do much. Getting these kids out to be able to be social again and do things, I think it's a great thing to have happen and I'm glad they're having the fair this year."

"I'm glad they're giving kids the option to be a part of it still."

Patricia Sumner, the horse program leader, said the pandemic posed challenges to help new kids get acquainted with the program. However with the Fair on the horizon, kids are showcasing their excitement, she said.

ment, she said.

"They're excited to see others they only see at the 4H meetings," Sumner said. "A lot of these kids come from different schools and different areas through Waukesha County and they don't get to see one another except through horse shows or at the fair. They're excited to do that. They're excited to decorate the barns. Just to have the companionship with their friends."

The Fair is also a time for the 4H alumni to get reacquainted with people within the program, Sumner said.

"Always fun to see how the kids have gone on with their lives, some bring their children for us to see," Sumner said. "Those are the things we really look forward to."

Boling said the experiences 4H kids have during the fair are ones that will last a lifetime.

"As they become older adults, they will understand how those experiences provided necessary life skills for their future," Boling said. "An invaluable experience through the county fair. It's something that's woven into our community. We're really happy to be a part of that."

Fairest of the Fair reflects on past ambassadors

Plans to highlight women at 2021 Waukesha County Fair

WAUKESHA —s The 2021 Fairest of the Fair recognizes she’s not the first Waukesha County Fair ambassador — there’s been a number of women who stood in the role before her.

That’s why Mariah Richardson, the 2021 fairest from Dousman, is putting together a display of photos of the county’s Fairest of the Fairs over the years.

“I have been in contact and working with the (Waukesha County Historical Society) and the Waukesha Freeman to go through the old newspaper articles to find the names and pictures of the past fairests,” she said. “I believe I have 28 of the 55 past fairests (as of June 21), which is awesome.”

Richardson said she’s putting the picture, name and the year the fairest was crowned up on a display board to be located at the 4-H Forum at the Waukesha County Fair to honor and showcase them.

“It’s been really fun, some of them have been in contact with me just sending pictures that they have as well, so it’s been fun to listen to their stories and there was also one or two that were also the Wisconsin State Fairest of the Fair as well,” she said.

Richardson, as well as other fairest of the fairs in counties throughout Wisconsin, will also compete for the state Fairest of the Fair crown in January of 2022.

Richardson’s advice for future fairest of the fairs is to take all of the opportunities that are available to them and to also reach out and make their own opportunities. Richardson said it’s important to smile all the time, representing a good image for the fair.

“(Also) to just embrace (the role) and have so much fun with it,” she said. “I think just from my past experience from last summer, I visited 31 of the local sponsors of the Waukesha fair and it was just exciting and fun to meet those people and to personally thank them and to see the faces of the people who make the fair possible.”

Richardson said she remembers showing sheep when she was 9 years old through 4-H and seeing past fairest of the fairs handing out ribbons during the shows — she was inspired to become a fairest herself.

“They just represented the fair so well and I looked up to them as a great idol,” she said.

Richardson said the experience has meant a lot, with the fair shaping her into the person she is today, and she’s looking forward to the fair coming up July 21 through July 25.

“I’ve learned so much and kind of grown up at the fair, so having the opportunity to give back and represent the fair has meant a ton to me,” she said.

Emma Vorpapel of Hartland was named the 2022 Waukesha County Fairest of the Fair on June 23.
